The Republicans of West Virginia, in Convention assembled, declare that the Democratic party of West Virginia has proven false to its many pledges of reform, reduction of taxes, and the inauguration of a policy for the development of the State.

It has forced upon the State a cumbersome, expensive and abstruse Constitution of difficult and uncertain interpretation and more difficult execution.

It has created a system of County Courts that has made the enforcement of law and the redress of private wrongs difficult, costly and uncertain; and that has

It has impaired the efficiency of the oublic schools of the State by hostile legislation and an indifferent administration of offices connected therewith.

It has enforced a burdensome, unequal and inefficient system of road laws.

It has increased offices, salaries and overmental expenses, without any adequate return to the tax-payer.

It has made no earnest effort to promote mmigration and encourage capital to develop the resources and wealth of the of other States, and by the contract system of convict labor lepreciated the wages of honest workers.

It has shown itself indifferent to the interests of the tax-payer, laborer, producer and shipper of the State, and that it is controlled by a reactionary and old time policy, and incapable of concleving or executing a wise, liberal or progressive policy in the government of the State.

The Republican party pledges itself to reform in State saffairs, the reduction of texation, salaries, fees, and the number of offices to the fullest extent consistent with the proper administration of the laws. To the legal control of all monopolies while protecting the vested rights of those whose capital is asked to aid in developing the great natural resources of the State.

It declares itself in favor of the abolition of County Courts as now constituted and administered, and will endeavor to secure a non-partisan and able judiciary. It declares that the best interests of the State requires that every encouragement by way of liberal—laws relative to home.

It declares that the best interests of the State requires that every encouragement by way of liberal laws relative to home-steads, exemptions, industrial associations and mechanics' liens should be held out to induce thrift, economy and investment in homes by every citizen.

It pledges itself to secure more perfect regulations for the protection of miners and workers in all the dangerous occupa-tions.

It will guard and improve the system of free schools as the most efficient means for the education of all classes and the security of good government and good security of good government and good morals.

It will endeavor to simplify legislation and the administration of State and county affairs, and at the same time secure their best results.

The Republican party of West Virginia earnestly recommend to the people of the State the adoption of the constitutional amendments, proposed at the last session of the Legislature; believing that while they are not all that could be desired by the progressive citizens of this State, yet they represent a step taken in the direction of the overthrow of the reactionary party, which sought to relegate our young and growing State to the methods and modes of local and municipal government adopted to a past period in the political history of the people, and which has itself been found inefficient in keeping pace with the advancement of the age.

Finally the Republican party pledges itself to labor for the overthrow of Bourbonism and the inauguration of a wise, liberal and progressive policy in State affairs that shall bring West Virginia into harmony with hereast State and accounts.

liberal and progressive policy in State af-lairs that shall bring West Virginia into harmony with her sister States and cause her to share in the prosperity, wealth and growing power of the great States of the North and West.

In conclusion, we heartily approve and endorse the platform of principles adopted by the late National Republican Convention at Chicago, and hereby pledge our best efforts to secure the election of the bominees of that Convention, James A. Sarfield, of Ohio, and Chester A. Arthur, I New York.

The advance sheets of Poor's Manual of he Railroads of the United States are out, and the book, which will be issued in a ew days, is the thirteenth annual volume nd the most complete of the series. The Manual reports operations, including 84,-232 miles of railroads out of a total of 86,-497 miles. From the statement showin he number of miles constructed each year since 1830 to 1879, inclusive, it is learned that in 1830 there were twenty-three miles in operation; in 1835, 1,098; in 1839, 2,302; in 1841, 3,595; in 1851 the number had increased to 10,982; in 1856 to 22,016; in 1860, to 30,655; in 1868 to 42,229; in 1870 to 52,914; in 1871, when there was built the largest number of miles in any one year (7,379), to 60,283, in 1873 to 70,278; in 1873 to 70,989; in 1876 to 81,776, and in 1879 to 86,497. Next to 1871 in point of construction comes 1870, when 6,070 miles were built, then 1872 with 5,878, with 1869 next, when 4,615 were built, and in 1873 with 4,107. So that in the first years between 1809 and 1873, 28,709 miles were constructed, equal almost to the total construction in the first twenty-nine years of railroad building from 1850 to 1859, when only 28,789 miles were in connection with the increase of earnings continues to be the reduction of freight charges which has just closed. continues to be the reduction of freight charges which has been taking place on all our leading railroads for several years, and in no years more notably than in that which has just closed. To show the changes that have taken place in these re-spects during the last seven years, the fol-following figures are taken, commencing with the year 1873, that of the greatest prosperity in railroads prior to 1879: In 1873 thirteen railroads moved 45,556,002 tons of freight, with 11,438 miles of road. It 1879 the same roads moved 67,092546 1 1879 the same roads moved 67,092,549 ons, with 13,821 miles of road. The resactions in 1873 amount $112,004,648; in 1879 the amount was to $112,004,648; in 1879 the amount was $116, 311,452.

It will be seen from the above-that while there has been an increase in freight moved of 47,27 per cent, and in miles of road operated of 20,83 per cent, the increase in earnings from that source has been only 3.84 per cent. Feight is now moved at a rate per ton per mile which would five years ago have been regarded as impossible. The percentage of decrease has been 42.31 per cent—nearly equal to the increase in tons of freight moved, The reduction in rates during the year just closed is greater than in any one year before, except among a few of the trunk links during what was known as the was of rates in 1875-6.

The freight earnings of the roads given in the table were in 1873 about one-third the best of the latter year, instead of being as now, would have reached on the road named the sum of $230.618.885, and in 1879 about one-fourth. Had the rate of 1873 been maintained in 1879, the regipts for the latter year, instead of the roads given in the table were in 1873.55.

The freight earnings of the roads given in the table were in 1873 about one-third the present low stage of the latter year, instead of the roads given in the table were in 1875-6.

WETZEL COUNTY.

ssion of the Teachers Institute-A S journer's Observations at the County Seat—Col, Ben Since the Revolt in Obio County. NEW MARTINSVILLE, July 31. ditors Intelligeneer; The annual session of the Wetzel Coun-

y Teacher's Institute has been in session nere this week. It began Monday, July 26, and closed to-day, (Saturday.) The Institute was under the charge of the County Superintendent, J. W. Morgan, of Pine Grove. E. Bonar, of Moundsville, W. Va., was the instructor. There were between twenty and thirty in attendance Although the attendance was small there was great interest manifested by the teachers who were present. Very few of the citizens favored the Institute with their presence. Those who had leisure seemed to prefer watching the games of croquet in the Court House yard, or to stand on the public corners to discuss politics.

This being our first visit to this town, of course we felt a desire to see the town and course we felt a desire to see the town and to learn of its business, its schools, &c. We found business good, and with the dealers in the devil's tea rather above the average of the general business. We think there is more ardent spirits sold here than in any town of its size we ever visited. The school house is a poor building, scarcely fit to hold a political caucus in, much less a fit place to instruct the youth. We are glad that the people are akuning to their own that the people are wakening to their own interests in school matters and have con-cluded to build a neat brick school house which will contain six rooms.

This place has a population of about nine hundred, and has at present one church, an old dilapidated building, very much in need of repair. But in this matter, as well as in that of education, the people are wakening. The M. E. Church South will soon erect a new church, and the Ebiscopalians contemplate the building of another at a not far dis aut time. The County Court has been liberal enough to allow the court house to receive a new coat of paint, which adds much to its appearance. We would suggest they make some further improvements by tearing away the old fence and substituting anew one. Also that the inside of the building be made to correspond with the outside improvements.

building be made to correspond with the outside improvements.

The Hancock Club met in the court house last evening (Friday). Col. McEldowney was the orator. We were not present but we understand that, in the opinion of the Democrata, he sent Garfield so far up "salt river" that he never can return. turn.

Col. Ben Wilson's speech here a few 15 days ago was not well received by the 15 Democrats. He was severely denounced for giving Garfield a certificate of good moral character. We found plenty of short the second Sheriff $7.

M. A Brast, has just returned from Mt.
Union, where he has been attending school. We believe he intends to spend his vacation canvassing if e county to sell books, and when at home—in seeing after the interests of the gentler sex of his town.
